The Seniors

today i sat down quietly just to think awhile. as thoughts of you flowed through my mind, i began to smile.
i thought back to some special times that meant so much to me; those moments spent with you became such happy memories.
i thought of what you mean to me; how much i love you, too. i thought of all the happiness i've found in knowing you.
i thought of how i miss you, so lonely i have been; then i realized how nice it is to have you for a friend.

Class

As I zoomed along in my private space shuttle, I was in happy anticipation of what my 20 year class reunion would be like. Just then I looked at my fuel gauge and discovered that I only had about 1000 liters of fuel left so I decided to fuel up at the next planet. As I pulled in, I noticed a station so I went over and parked at Patti's Shuttle Service, and out walked PATTI GATES. The one and only proprietor of the garage. She said she was headed for earth, so I said she could ride with me. But first I had to stop at the grocery store to get something to eat. I walked in, and to my surprise, there sat BRENT COOPER, the owner of a chain of grocery stores, drinking a Diet Pepsi. I had plenty of room in my shuttle so I told him he could go with us. When we were walking back to the shuttle I heard a squeaky wheel squealing something and I looked around to see where it was coming from. Down the road there was a group of people gathered around REV. CINDY ROMINE preaching the good word. She decided to ride with us also and as we were talking a big truck drove by and sitting behind the wheel was none other than LORI POTTHOFF. After we caught up with her, she told us that she owns seven semi-trucks and an interplanetary truck transport, but she said she can't hire any drivers because nobody on that planet knows how to drive. She said, she had to park her truck in her lot and she could go to Earth with us. When we talked, I noticed another group of noisy people down the street and Lori informed me there was a parade down there, and TERESA KEARney was the top bill. We walked over there and sure enough there she was riding the biggest steer you ever seen. After we talked, we decided we would all get in my shuttle and head for earth. When we had been in space awhile, Cindy looked out the window in time to see LINDA CAREY float by. I always knew she was a little spacey. She was being followed by the Mormon Marching Choir. We pulled over and she informed us that they were on an interplanetary tour, headed for earth. Then I noticed we were low on fuel again because my 6 passenger shuttle had become a 7 passenger bus and the fuel mileage was rotten. I decided to fill 'er up at the planet we stopped at, even though it was only three feet tall. There saw EDDIE FLAIG, and he informed us that he played basketball and was really doing quite well.

Teresa asked him what the planet was like and he said it was just a bunch of craters. Just then Lisa spotted LEOTA REDDEN in a furry uniform. We asked her about it and she said, she was a crater ranger which is something like a forest ranger. I said it sounded like an interesting job, and she said it served her purpose. She informed us she was also married now. By now we had too many people to fit in my shuttle so I recommended we rent something bigger. Brent suggested a space station. Ed didn't think we needed anything quite that big so we found a larger shuttle and took off for earth.

I set the shuttle down on the grass of "P" hill, and I looked over at the highway and there was TERESA HACKERT running up the hill. With all of us yelling we managed to get her attention. After we caught up with her she told us that she was training for the Olympics. She did that by running to Hayes Center every day.

All of a sudden we saw a huge hat fly past. Teresa said it was a sombrero. It landed on the highway and out jumped Amparo Jaramillo. She informed us she's a flying Sombrero Salesman. Someone asked if we could go into town so we all jumped into Amparo's sombrero and zoomed into town. Right in the middle of town was a gigantic mansion and standing in front of it was BRAD FINLEY who informed us he now owns most of Southwest Nebraska. The reunion was held in Brad's Oval Office and as we all gathered together talking, CHERYL BUNDBACK walked in looking like the cover of Vogue magazine. She told us she was a model. Just as we went to sit down, in came Brad's bakers with a fancy 5 foot cake. There were cries to cut the cake. Then Teresa yelled, "We can't because Dawn's not here yet!" Just then, to our pleasant surprise, out of the cake popped an evenly tanned beach bunny from California. As we looked a little closer, to our amazement, it was no one but Dawn Jones herself. The class clown.

As we all sat and conversed, we decided that we should have these reunions more often.
